

Broken Arm a Life Saver If It's Wife's Fighting Arm And She's Walloping You

What Would Have Happened to Izzy if Mrs. Izzy Had Had the Full Complement of Punch Shooters the Judge Shuddered to Think, So the Timid East Side Husband, Whose Only Sin Was Cleanliness, Gets His Essex Market Summons.

By Roger Batchelder.

THERE was no telling what would have happened to Isadore if his wife had two fighting arms instead of one. As it was he had his hands full and admitted his inability to cope with the domestic situation. It seems that a wrangling was in progress at the Kefay home, Mrs. Isadore had broken her arm, but that was no fault of Izzy's. On the contrary, while he was as innocent as could be, that arm probably saved his life. At least that was his contention when he came to Essex Market Court to plead for life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

Judge Nolan was keeping score. "What do you want?" he asked as a woman came to the dock. "I want a summons."

"For whom?" "For his wife." "Him" was Izzy, who was standing timidly at the side.

"Why doesn't he come for it himself?" inquired His Honor.

"Izy is such a delicate person. He didn't know where the court was, and I did, and I wanted to come and see that his rights were protected."

"Sort of a lawyer," suggested Jerry Creedon, the official announcer.

"Exactly such," agreed the lady. "I am here to protect my brother Izzy against his terrible wife."

"I think I will hear Isadore's story," suggested Judge Nolan.

"My wife has a broken arm," declared Izzy, when he had summoned courage to speak.

"Do you want medical treatment for her?" inquired the Judge.

"I should say not. I want treatment for myself."

"Tell me the whole story," ordered His Honor.

"It was like this," began Izzy. "I went to take a bath and I took with me the soap with which to take a bath. I guess that was the trouble in the first place, because I took by me the soap. Well, when I comes back I received behind the ear the milk bottle and a couple of punches."

"You mean that your wife hit you with a milk bottle and punched you a couple of times?"

"Identically," agreed Izzy. "But I thought she had a broken arm," mused Judge Nolan.

"That is just the trouble," said Izzy. "I mean, that is just what saved me, with myself from being murdered."

"What were you doing when she hit you?"

"I was being hit," admitted Izzy. "Yet she had a broken arm," inquired His Honor again in a puzzled manner.

"Exactly such. With one arm she's just like the dickens, but when she gets over it and has two arms I can tell what will happen to me. I want you should summons her with you at court so that I can be safe at home."

His Honor shook his head doubtfully and placed his John Hancock on a summons. "I guess you must need it," he said.

"I guess I do need it," replied Izzy, snatching at the passport to happiness and leaving the grand old temple smilingly. "It might save my life among me," he concluded.

The Price of Pork Chops and Bacon

Here are reasons why the fine, fresh pork tenderloins and pork chops, or savory ham, or crinkly bacon, which you enjoy for breakfast, cost much more per pound than the market quotation on live hogs which you read in the newspaper:

An average hog weighs 220 pounds.

Of this, only 70 per cent (154 pounds) is meat and lard.

So, when we pay 15¢ a pound for live hogs, we are really paying more than 21¢ a pound for the meat which we will get from these animals, even after taking into account the value of the by-products.

But people show a preference for only one-third of the whole—the pork chops, fancy bacon, and choice cuts from juicy hams.

This means that when we are selling Premium bacon at 43½¢ per pound wholesale and Premium hams at 30¢, there are other parts for which we get as low as 6¢ or 8¢ per pound. The net result is an average profit to us of less than 1¢ a pound.

The choice cuts are higher because of a demand for them.

Another thing: Only 35 pounds of the entire hog—or about 1/6th—is usually marketed at once. The rest must be pickled, cured, or smoked. This takes months, and adds to the costs which must be met.

Future Physical Condition Depends on Health During Childhood Days

Healthy Children Red-Blooded

Pepto-Mangan Restores Pale, Thin, Anaemic Children to Normal Vigor

Parents with the best interests of their children's health and happiness at heart, watch their children very carefully during the years when the foundation for future health is being laid.

Prompt attention should be given the boy or girl who seems listless, who doesn't laugh, romp and play like other children, whose appetite is poor, and whose body is under-developed. The condition of such children is often caused by thin, impoverished blood. Good health depends upon good blood. If the blood lacks the necessary richness to supply the body with nourishment, good health is impossible.

Gude's Pepto-Mangan is particularly beneficial to pale, thin, listless children. Pepto-Mangan is exceedingly pleasant to take—no child will refuse it, and it soon increases the supply of rich, healthy blood, creating thousands of the tiny red-blood cells that carry vigor to every part of the body.

Pepto-Mangan is prepared in tablet as well as liquid form. Both possess exactly the same medicinal qualities. "Gude's" is the only genuine Pepto-Mangan. Look for the name "Gude's" on the package. If it is not there, it is not Pepto-Mangan.—Advt.

DRINK MORE WATER IF KIDNEYS BOTHER

Eat less meat and take Salts for Backache or Bladder trouble.

Uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked; get sluggish, ache, and feel like lumps of lead. The urine becomes cloudy; the bladder is irritated, and you may be obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night. When the kidneys clog you must help them flush off the body's urinous waste or you'll be a real sick person shortly. At first you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, you suffer from backache, sick headache, dizziness, stomach gets sour, tongue coated and you feel rheumatic twinges when the weather is laid.

Eat less meat, drink lots of water; also get from any pharmacist four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which every one should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active. Druggists here say they sell lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble.—Advt.
